THE SLOE or BLACK THORN.

NAMES.

Turc. كوكم

G. Αχσια Κοκκυμηλεα.

L. Pruna Sylvestria.

I. Vepro.

G. Schlehen.

F. Prunelle Sauvage.

S. Cireula.

D. Slee-pruymen.

PLACE.

This Bush grows in any Place Hedges, Banks &c.

DESCRIPTION.

This Small Tree, or Bush; has a Firm tough wo
Sharp Thorns 1, coverd with a Smooth Grey Bark. L are a light Green, when full grown 3, of a dark green, finel their Edges. The Empalement or Cup, is a light willow 4, is composd of five, and sometimes Six very white Le
Ovary 5, is a White Style 6, whose top is a little Dar
Three times as many White Chives, as their are Lea with Summits 7, Coverd with a Yellow Farina. The Fru fine Blackish purple, of an Austere Taste, in which is Sloe opend 8, 5, 6, 7, 7, are parts magnified.

VIRTUES.

Sloes are Restringent and Binding and Used
Teeth and in Sore Mouths.

T. Sheldrake Delin